MOOSEWOOD'S NOTEBOOK

#29

Women are physically stronger than draft horses, with steely nerves, and limitless endurance. Man conversely is a finely wrought creation, sensitive, nervous, prone to hysteria, and quick to tire.

Robert Ruark

The prideful tern about to be a mother,
Reflects then two good terns deserve another.

Clifton Fadiman

FORESTRY 19-19 FOR THE SEASON

The Brooklyn Tournament closed out Vox Silvae's intercollegiate debate activity for this year, and the results for the year showed we were winning at an average of 50%.

As any of you that have been following the results of the tournaments we attended know, there were times when we did better than fifty percent, and in fact, nearly placed second.

The second semester opened with Ithaca College, where the Foresters proved that they could out talk girls by downing New Paltz.

Then at Buffalo, we had the best showing of any tournament, missing second place by only three speaker points. It was here that we nearly got locked in a U. B. parking lot and got lost trying to find out where the motel was from a map which lacked both a north arrow and a scale.

We went over the hill to the LeMoyne College Tournament where things looked good at first, then fizzled out. We had five wins out of the first six debates, but we weren't able to keep up steam, and lost just enough so that we didn't place.

Although Vox Silvae is not debating as such, it will be going to the three day Legislative Assembly held in Albany. Here students break up into three committees and discuss student submitted bills on vital problems of the State, which are then submitted and discussed before the student assembly. The feeling of excitement and accomplishment is not one soon to be forgotten by anyone who attends.
