I wish to comment on several controversial letters that have been received by this editor and clarify a precedent of the Knothole. As editor of this rag, I consider it my prerogative to print what I think should be printed—news, notices and letters to the editor. Since I have as many faults as the next person, I am always open to suggestions. Concerning a certain controversial issue, of which those involved are familiar, I have heard the arguments presented by both sides—the student involved and the administration. The article written by said student was not printed, not because the administration "censored" it, but because this editor considered the arguments against publication more convincing than those for publication.

The Knothole is a medium through which student gripes may be aired. If I believe that the controversy is one that should be aired with the ultimate result being what the instigator intended, I will print it in fairness to everyone. I will not allow any article to be censored by anyone, unless I am in complete accord with their reasoning.

LET'S BE A LITTLE COURTEOUS GENTLEMEN

From the amount of noise that one hears from the audience during convocation, one might think he was back in a grade school auditorium. It seems that convo is the only time that we have available on Wednesdays to work the crossword puzzle or visit old friends. We are foresters, but first of all, we are gentlemen. Let's act like gentlemen and show a little more courtesy toward our guest speaker. You may feel that you know more about his topic than he does. But is more likely that you don't. You may not be interested in what he has to say, but some of us would like to broaden our knowledge beyond forestry. The present conduct of students in convocation is fitting for grade school students, not members of a university.

NEWS FROM THE HITCHIN' POST

Glad to print any notices of pending nuptuals, but to protect ourselves, we usually look up the name in the Student Directory to check its validity. Not only were we unable to do this, but in this circumstance, couldn't even read the lady's last name. So congratulations to the future Mr. and Mrs.違

THE LAST ADVENTURE OF PARKA BOLLO

With that, we leave you to the arduous task of flunking your finals. See you next year...maybe. Have a good summer, make a lot of money, and to you inhabitants of the Adirondack'd New-est Playground- Have a ball!!!
